

Younkin Descendants, 2012 Younkin Reunion Pennsylvania

About 75 Junghen descendants gathered to celebrate a shared heritage on July 27-29, 2012 in Somerset County, PA. Highlights:

Friday night: While some folks wished to swap genealogy at the Comfort in on Friday night, a group of mostly Jacob Yungken descendants went cemetery hopping, stopping first at the old Delilah Younkin cemetery to honor Frederick J Younkin, Civil War Veteran.

Frederick appreciated a visit from his 3rd Great Grandchildren, Vickie, Lolly, Linda, and his cousins, Colleen and Blair Younkin.

The cousins then moved on to Old Bethel Cemetery to visit parents and friends, then finished up the tour at the Yankee John Cemetery on Lemon Road.

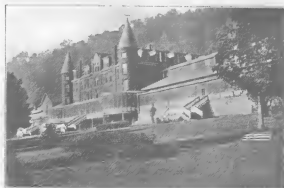

Saturday morning: Seven carloads gathered at the picnic grounds to carpool to the site of the Will Trimpey murder in 1914.

We were greeted by the current owners of the Will Trimpey farm, John Jr and John Sr Kreger. Will Trimpey was cold bloodedly killed by his neighbor Hen Cramer over a right of way on June 1914. Will was the son of Nancy Younkin, d/o Frederick F, s/o Frederick G Younkin. The Kregers, who are also Younkin descendants, took us to the spot where Hen Cramer jumped out from behind a tree to fire his shotgun into Trimpey's gut. We then traveled to the site of Trimpey's death, Markleton Sanatorium.

Granted, there isn't a lot to see there today – just a thick forest, and copperheads, but it's a marvel to see how Mother Nature takes back what belongs to her. Hard to imagine that this huge hospital that once stood on that hillside has been swallowed up by woods.

Markleton Sanatorium as it stood 98 years ago. Much of the lumber from this building was recycled into the buildings at the Picnic Grove where we meet.

The tour finished at the Mt Zion Lutheran Cemetery in Kingwood, where prize of a free Commonwealth Vs Cramer booklet was given to the first to find Will amongst the stones. We might mention that, known only to the tour leader, Linda, there was at least one Hen Cramer descendant on the tour. If interested, booklets containing the newspaper transcripts are still available from Linda for $4. each. Cheap.

Returning to the Grove, and back to Younkin business, our President, Toni Younkin presents the First Johann Heinrich Junghen Scholarship award – the recipient – Charles Engleka. Charles had attended the Reunion many times in the past. He will be using the OVER $300.00 in scholarship money at Frostburg State University. He is the son of Jesse Engleka and Grandson of Avis Younkin Engleka. Avis is d/o Benjamin Younkin, s/o of Harvey, s/o Wm Lincoln, s/o Frederick J, s/o Jacob, s/o Jacob, s/o Johann Heinrich Yunghen.

Yes, there was a 2nd applicant, who was entering his freshman year at Purdue University, and we encourage him and other proven Younkin descendants to apply for the 2013 Scholarship year.

Charles Engleka accepts the First Annual Johann Heinrich Scholarship from President Toni Younkin. Charles is in his Sophomore Year at Frostburg State University.

The other part of the Scholarship went to a 50/50 drawing, which was won by Blair Younkin, Jr. No, Blair did not win $300.00 as many folks gave directly to the Scholarship, and bypassed the 50/50 tickets. Thanks to all who gave their support to this project (you know who you are!) and especially to one generous contributor who donated $100. directly to the scholarship.

DO REMEMBER, the attendance requirement at the Younkin Reunion was waived for the first year only. The thought behind the scholarship is to encourage appreciation of Younkin heritage, which includes attendance and participation at the Reunion.

After a catered luncheon, Younkins were entertained by Robert Gohn, who played favorite songs of the Civil War, both Union and Confederate. Great job by the entertainment committee!

Bob Gohn, in his Confederate kepi.

Also new this year, (aside from a lot of new faces) was a visit from Marietta Younklin Showalter, age 96, who traveled all the way from California to attend yesterday's reunion. She sold copies of her 128-page book, "Marietta's Stories: From Kansas to California, Memories of My Life." You can buy one on Amazon.com: <http://amzn.to/O9kBNh>

15-year-old saves woman from stick beating in Connellsville Twp.

CONNELLSVILLE TOWNSHIP, Pa. —

A 15-year-old hero came to the rescue of a woman who was under attack by a man with a stick, Channel 11's Kelly Brennan reported. The Fayette County teenager and his father managed to tackle the suspect and get the woman to safety.

"I think people should always look out for one another," 15-year-old Ryan Younklin said. "I think that's how I want people to treat me, so that's how I treat someone else."

Ryan turned those words into action Wednesday night. He was fishing at his favorite spot along the Yough River in Connellsville Township.

Behind him, a group of people were drinking beer and arguing about drugs. That's when, police say, Gary Steiger picked up a tree branch and started hitting a woman repeatedly in the head.

Ryan Younkin, Fayette Co., PA

"I yelled at him to stop, and when he wouldn't stop, I tried to grab his foot and pull him off, but he was like clinging to her and wouldn't come off," Ryan recalled. Ryan then distracted Steiger by running down a path.

"I just said come and get me," Ryan explained. "That's when he started chasing me."

Ryan's dad, a Pennsylvania state constable, jumped in to help. Albert Rocky Younkin held Steiger down in one part of the woods, while his son went back to help the injured woman.

"She was just begging for help, like a gasping cry," Ryan said.

Ryan then cradled the unconscious woman in his arms and carried her up a rocky path. That kept a violent situation from turning deadly. "EMS said he did a heck of a job because it would've taken them a little longer," Constable Younkin said. "I mean, you don't hear that all the time. The only thing I can say is that's my son and I'm very proud of him for it."

Steiger is in the Fayette County Prison on a $15,000 bond. As for Ryan, he'll start football practice next week.

Donna's Cemetery Tour

Please visit Donna Younkin Logan, online, for her cemetery tour in 1992, which was put on YouTube. She visits the burial places of Johan Herman Jungken at St. Lukes, and Johann Heinrich Jungken at St. Matthews, both in Nockamixon Township, Bucks Co., PA. It's eerie but comforting to hear her voice again.

After learning to fly at the age of 16, Amanda became an accomplished multi-engine and tail wheel pilot; she became proficient in over 15 different types of airplanes. May 22, 2004. The couple traveled the airshow circuit with their fathers as Kyle continued his wingwalking career. They were married on October 18, 2005 and along with her brother Matt, took over the multi-family airshow business that their fathers

As one herself, she coached and encouraged young girls that she spoke with at airshows to pursue their dreams of becoming a pilot and to never let anyone hold them back. She was a member of the Arkansas ninety-nines, a group of women pilots that dates back to the nineteen thirties. Younkin Reunion Pennsylvania on Facebook

We now have 41 members to this group on Facebook. Started by President, Toni Younkin 2 years ago as a private group, our members voted to open it to the public. It's an easy way to communicate with each other, and often old photos are posted there, which are then available to all of us.
